ERRP Reporting Now Live

I have spent the last few days speaking at the JCEB National Health and Welfare Institute here in DC and have unfortunately not been keeping up with recent events. One such recent event is that there is much happening with the ERRP right now. Currently, the cost reporting and reimbursement request features are now live for plan sponsors with approved applications. If you are waiting for your application to be approved, you should review the requirements so that you are ready to submit once the approval comes through. Click here for additional information:
