

Insights: Publications

The AI patent paradox: Balancing innovation and ingenuity in chemistry

C&EN

September 8, 2026

As artificial intelligence accelerates breakthroughs in chemistry, it is also raising complex questions about inventorship, patentability, and the role of human ingenuity.

In a new C&EN article, Denver Office Managing Partner Justin Krieger examines how the intellectual property landscape must evolve to keep pace with AI-driven innovation.

Read it here.

Related People

Justin L. Krieger

t 303.405.1486

jkrieger@ktslaw.com