Bryce Latray focuses his practice on construction and infrastructure projects, alternative dispute resolution, and government contracting.

Bryce's practice includes representing general contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, and project owners in various capacities including state and federal court litigation and arbitration, bankruptcy, pre-dispute negotiations, contract review, and appeals. Bryce has advised and represented clients in connection with disputes involving mixed use real estate developments, complex commercial construction projects, and industrial facilities.

While attending the University of Houston Law Center, Bryce mediated various matters with the Harris County Dispute Resolution Center in both Justice of the Peace and Harris County Courts at Law and served as a mediator in the UHLC Mediation Clinic. He was an integral member of several negotiation and mediation teams which garnered recognition and trophies for their many regional and national championships. Bryce served as Notes and Comments Editor for the Houston Business and Tax Law Journal. He was Executive Chair of the ADR Team and President of the Law Center Veterans Association.

A natural leader, Bryce served in the United States Army as an Airborne Infantry Squad Leader in Fort Bragg, North Carolina, where he was responsible for the leadership, development, and wellbeing of soldiers during training and overseas combat operations in Afghanistan and led multiple combat operations.
