Explaining Changing Trends in Cleantech Patent Filing with Kilpatrick Townsend's Scott McMillan and David Hsu

June 12, 2019

by Tyler Stoff, Policy & Research Manager with ACORE

Patent litigation and prosecution firm Kilpatrick Townsend & Stockton LLP and patent consultants GreyB Services recently released their first annual Patenting Trends Study. Their findings documented changes in filing behavior from 2008 – 2018. The American Council On Renewable Energy (ACORE) staff interviewed Kilpatrick Townsend Partner Scott McMillan and Associate David Hsu to better understand the impact of these trends on the renewable energy industry. This interview has been compressed for clarity.
