Kilpatrick Adopts RelativityOne for AI-Powered e-Discovery

April 18, 2024

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (April 18) – Kilpatrick today announced it is expanding its e-discovery offerings with the addition of Relativity's SaaS product RelativityOne. With RelativityOne, Kilpatrick can access the latest Relativity innovations, manage large volumes of data, and quickly identify key issues during litigation and internal investigations. RelativityOne provides comprehensive AI capabilities, empowering Kilpatrick to glean insights faster and dramatically reduce the time and effort associated with review.

"RelativityOne is a safe and secure, cutting-edge e-discovery tool with tremendous advances in technology-assisted review and a host of other innovations, including generative AI," said Katie King, Principal with Kilpatrick's LitSmart® E-Discovery team. "With each new strategic investment that the firm makes in technology, we are focused on tools that expand our services and help our processes become more efficient and cost-effective for the client. RelativityOne not only meets that criterion but goes well beyond."

Kilpatrick is currently participating in Relativity's Limited General Availability (LGA) program for Relativity aiR for Review to power litigation and investigations as part of its new suite of fit-for-purpose generative AI solutions, Relativity aiR. Each aiR solution is developed with privacy, security, and transparency at its core. aiR solutions provide in-depth explanations, allowing users to fully understand recommendations so they can validate, defend, and trust in results.

"Kilpatrick is honored to work with Relativity in its LGA program for aiR for Review," said Virginia Ring, Principal with Kilpatrick's LitSmart® E-Discovery team. "This is a true collaboration with the firm offering real-time feedback on how aiR for Review can be enhanced to better serve clients and we are just scratching the surface with how it can be utilized. Kilpatrick looks forward to Relativity aiR's integration into the firm's standard processes and workflow."

"Kilpatrick's decision to adopt RelativityOne, with particular attention to its generative AI capabilities and the Relativity aiR suite, is one that exemplifies exactly what it is that makes Kilpatrick an innovative leader in law," said Cristin Traylor, Senior Director, AI Transformation & Law Firm Strategy
