

Insights: Publications

Joint Employer Liability in the United States and Australia

New York Law Journal

November 17, 2017

Written by

Why is the New York Law Journal publishing an article on the joint employer liability issue in the United States and Australia? Because this issue, which has been THE hot issue in U.S. franchise law for several years, has also shown its face in Australia during this period, and is now the headline legal issue in Australian franchising as well.