

Insights: Publications

Supreme Court clears the way for employers to use arbitration agreements to constrain class actions—but is arbitration right for your workplace?

JD Supra

May 24, 2018

On Monday, a sharply-divided U.S. Supreme Court upheld the enforceability of employment agreements that bar class actions by mandating individualized arbitration. This ruling has significant ramifications that every employer should consider.