

Insights: Publications

An Argument for Mandatory Production of Limited Secondary Consideration Evidence by Petitioners in Inter Partes Reviews

IP Watchdog

September 13, 2020

Written by Kristin J. Doyle

It seems manifestly unjust that a petitioner can publicly condemn a patent as obvious, yet not be forced to disclose evidence documenting that, behind closed doors, the petitioner behaved in a manner (i.e., copied/applauded the patented technology) that suggests a contrary belief.

Related People

Kristin J. Doyle

t 404.815.6389

kdoyle@ktslaw.com