Susan Cahoon Profiled in Emory Magazine

Emory Magazine Vol. 94 No. 3

July 31, 2019

Susan Cahoon 68C was just fifteen when she entered Emory College in 1964. An only child, Cahoon grew up in Jacksonville, Florida, where she skipped a grade in elementary school and jumped ahead of her high school classmates after receiving credit for classes she took when her parents briefly lived in Washington state. She loved reading, history, politics, and watching TV courtroom lawyers on Perry Mason and The Defenders.
