Insights: Publications

A Recurring Problem In Patentability Of Computer Software

Law360

FEBRUARY 22, 2018 Written by

Section 101 of the United States Patent Act protects "any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof." Historically, this been interpreted to "include anything under the sun that is made by man."