Complex Commercial Litigation

Joe Gadberry focuses his practice on complex commercial litigation matters. He represents clients in state and federal courts as well as in arbitration and other alternative dispute resolution forums. He litigates on a wide variety of issues, including commercial contract disputes; business torts, including breach of fiduciary duty and fraud; trade secrets; and state and federal statutory schemes.

Joe's clients appreciate his written and verbal communication skills, integrity, discipline, time management, organization, and dependability. Prior to joining the firm, Joe was a summer associate and then a litigation associate in the Wilmington, Delaware office of an international law firm where he specialized in corporate and commercial litigation and worked extensively with case analysis and research, law interpretation, and court and trial proceedings.

While attending University of Virginia School of Law, Joe was a member of the Editorial Board for the Journal of Law and Politics. Joe also served as a research assistant to Professor Dick Howard where he conducted research on constitutions and democratization around the world.

Joe was recognized in 2025, 2026 and 2027 as one of the "Best Lawyers: Ones to Watch" for Commercial Litigation by The Best Lawyers in America®.

Joe is proficient in Portuguese.

Experience

Wireless World LLC d/b/a Experts Choice v. T-Mobile USA, Inc. and Sprint Solutions, LLC, King County, Washington, Case No. 23-2-16531-4-SEA. Served on trial practice and complex motions team that won and obtained confirmation of a $13,950,060 arbitration award, including damages, attorneys' fees and costs, on behalf of a small business wireless retailer client in JAMS arbitration. Following the merger between T-Mobile and Sprint, we represented Wireless World, former Sprint cellular phone and mobile services retailer that transitioned to T-Mobile post-merger. After Wireless World sold its business for a significantly reduced value because of alleged deceptive actions by T-Mobile and Sprint, we filed an arbitration with JAMS. Following a one-week hearing, retired Washington Supreme Court Justice Faith Ireland entered a final award in our client's favor, finding violations of Washington's Consumer Protection Act (a state unfair and deceptive trade practices or "mini-FTC" Act). A Washington Superior Court judge confirmed the award over T-Mobile's motion to vacate.
