

Insights: Publications

Anticipating Tech Market Volatility With R&W Policies

Law360

January 30, 2023

Written by Eric A. Larson

Representations and warranties insurance, or RWI, has been on the market for over 20 years but became an increasingly popular product for technology deals in recent years as tech deal makers became more familiar with it and premiums decreased. As it turned out, tech deals were particularly good candidates for RWI because of the inherent uncertainties presented by investments in early-stage technology companies.

Related People

Eric A. Larson

t 404.815.6096

elarson@ktslaw.com