

Insights: News

Seven Kilpatrick Townsend Attorneys Named 2019 Colorado Super Lawyers

March 25, 2019

DENVER (March 25) – Kilpatrick Townsend & Stockton announced today that seven Denver office partners were selected as 2019 Colorado Super Lawyers. Thomas Franklin, Darin Gibby, Matthew Holohan, Kristopher Reed, Daniel Sherwintner, and David Sipiora received Super Lawyers recognition. Karam Saab was recognized as a Rising Star.

Kilpatrick Townsend led all firms with the most Super Lawyers listed in Intellectual Property Litigation

The Super Lawyers distinction honors attorneys who attain a high degree of peer recognition and professional achievement as some of the region's pre-eminent lawyers. Super Lawyers is a rating service of lawyers from more than 70 practice areas. The selection process includes independent research, peer nominations and peer evaluations, all of which result in a comprehensive and diverse listing of the top five percent of attorneys in each state.

Thomas Franklin is a partner in the firm's Electrical Engineering & Software team. He specializes in strong patent prosecution, brand advice, licensing, due diligence and strategic counseling for high tech and clean tech companies in the electronic, software and energy fields. Mr. Franklin uses creative IP procurement strategies with a laser focus on his client's business goals, leveraging IP protection to help large companies maintain their dominance and assist startups as they vie to dominate. Mr. Franklin has been recognized by Super Lawyers annually since 2014.

Darin Gibby has over 20 years of experience and focuses his practice on intellectual property counseling, transactions and licensing matters as well as patent prosecution. He has extensive experience handling the intellectual property aspects of mergers and acquisitions. He counsels start-ups and small businesses on intellectual property challenges to help maximize their portfolios to make them attractive acquisition targets. In addition, he manages several large patent portfolios for Fortune 500 companies. He was instrumental in launching the Denver office in 1995, and since that time has spearheaded its growth and emergence as the largest patent firm in Denver. Mr. Gibby was recognized by Super Lawyers in 2006 - 2007, and annually since 2012.

Matthew Holohan has extensive experience representing technology companies through all stages of litigation, including pre-litigation analysis, trials and appeals. He has appeared at trial in U.S. district courts and the U.S.

International Trade Commission, and has argued before the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. Mr. Holohan's technical expertise includes semiconductor processing, digital signal processing, digital video, wireless communications, and cellular technology. Mr. Holohan was previously recognized by Super Lawyers in 2014 – 2015 and in 2018.

Kristopher Reed focuses his practice on intellectual property litigation and counseling. Mr. Reed works with clients in such diverse fields as electronics, semiconductor manufacturing and development, software, telecommunications, transportation, entertainment, retail and consumer goods, and financial transactions. Mr. Reed has extensive experience in all aspects of federal district court litigation and International Trade Commission (ITC) investigations and trials.

Karam Saab focuses his practice on patent prosecution and counseling in the electronics and software fields. He has extensive experience with integrated circuit design, storage devices, encryption, networking, communications, electronic money transfers and biometrics. He has experience working with flight, telecommunication and insurance systems. Mr. Saab handles prosecution matters in China, Japan, Australia, and the European Union. Mr. Saab has been recognized by Super Lawyers annually since 2017.

Danny Sherwinter is a registered patent attorney who focuses his practice on strategic intellectual property portfolio development with an emphasis on patent prosecution in the electronics, software, and mechanical arts. He counsels individuals and start-ups to the largest patent filers in the world in a wide range of strategic and technical disciplines including telecommunications and networking, signal processing and coding (including medical, encryption, and neural network applications), computer architecture and storage systems, analog and digital circuit design, biometrics, aerospace devices, and business methods and software. Mr. Sherwinter was previously recognized by Super Lawyers in 2013, 2017 and 2018.

David Sipiora focuses his practice on patent litigation, patent licensing and counseling, trademark and copyright, and trade secrets. He advises clients on intellectual property matters in the context of transactional, employment, licensing and pre-litigation law. Mr. Sipiora helps clients protect their businesses through strategic intellectual property portfolio management and development. He regularly prosecutes trademarks and copyrights for clients. Mr. Sipiora has been recognized by Super Lawyers annually since 2008.

This year's edition of Colorado Super Lawyers also featured an interview with Matthew Holohan and Karam Saab discussing their difficult pro bono work on immigration cases involving migrant parents who were separated from their children at the U.S. border.

Follow the firm on Twitter: @KTS_Law.

Related People

Darin J. Gibby

Denver, CO

t 303.571.4000

dgibby@ktslaw.com

David E. Sipiora

Denver, CO

t 303.405.8525

dsipiora@ktslaw.com