

Insights: Publications

AI's Role In Financial Services: Some Early Lessons

Law360

November 14, 2018

In a speech delivered this week at “Fintech and the New Financial Landscape” in Philadelphia, Federal Reserve Board Gov. Lael Brainard discussed how technology is changing the financial landscape and the lessons being learned about artificial intelligence in financial services. This article seeks to provide some key takeaways from the speech for practitioners, with an emphasis on key compliance considerations relating to the use of AI in the provision of financial services. Read the full article, "AI's Role In Financial Services: Some Early Lessons."