Insights: Publications

INSIGHT: Trademark Rights Still Intact After High Court Booking.com Decision

Bloomberg Law

JULY 22, 2020 Written by

The U.S. Supreme Court recently ruled that a generic word combined with ".com" can create a federally protectable trademark. All brand owners should be aware that the Booking.com decision did not change the requirements for establishing trademark rights, or, once established, the scope of those rights.