Litigation

Kyleigh Feehs focuses her practice on complex commercial litigation.

Prior to joining the firm, Kyleigh was Associate Legal Counsel at the Human Trafficking Institute, where she provided legal support for its strategic litigation by filing amicus briefs in federal human trafficking cases on appeal; served as a member of the Alliance to End Slavery and Trafficking (ATEST), a U.S. based coalition that advocates for anti-trafficking policies and corporate interventions to prevent and end all forms of forced labor; and assisted in the prosecution of traffickers with partner countries. Kyleigh also served as the lead architect of the Federal Human Trafficking Report. As the lead-architect, Kyleigh directed the content creation for the annual Report publication, co-authored the annual Report, and regularly briefed government leaders and other anti-trafficking stakeholders on key findings and emerging trends in efforts to hold traffickers accountable through both criminal and civil litigation.

While attending law school, Kyleigh worked with the firm as a summer associate in its Complex Commercial Litigation practice in 2015 and 2016. She served as a legal intern in the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Middle District of North Carolina and a summer legal intern in the U.S. Department of Justice's Human Trafficking Prosecution Unit. Kyleigh also served as Symposium Editor of the Wake Forest Law Review, Chair of Honor Council, Marshall for Moot Court, and the Education Justice Project Coordinator for the Pro Bono Project. In May 2017, Kyleigh received the North Carolina Advocates for Justice Most Outstanding Advocate Award.

Prior to attending law school, Kyleigh worked for the International Justice Mission where she supported the organization's forced labor and sex trafficking operations in South Asia. She has lived in India and Swaziland where she worked with survivors and populations vulnerable to trafficking, coordinated government and law school trainings on forced labor, and drafted best practices manuals for prosecuting human trafficking cases internationally.

Kyleigh was recognized in 2025 and 2026 as one of the "Best Lawyers: Ones to Watch" for Commercial Litigation by The Best Lawyers in America®. The Triad Business Journal named Kyleigh as one of its "40 Under 40" in 2026 and she was recognized as a "Phenom" by North Carolina Lawyers Weekly in its 2026 Excellence in Law Awards. American Lawyer's Daily Report recognized Kyleigh as one of the "On the Rise in North Carolina" during its annual Southeastern Legal Awards in 2026.

Experience

Dockery v. Wright, Superior Court, Forsyth County, NC, Case No. 21-CVS-5196. Obtained summary judgment and final judgment against investment advisor for more than $295,000 on behalf of elderly investors who were steered to invest in a Ponzi scheme from which the advisor was being paid directly. The court entered judgment in our clients' favor on claims for violations of the North Carolina Securities Act, fraud, constructive fraud, and breach of fiduciary duty.

Wireless World LLC d/b/a Experts Choice v. T-Mobile USA, Inc. and Sprint Solutions, LLC, King County, Washington, Case No. 23-2-16531-4-SEA. Served on trial practice and complex motions team that won and obtained confirmation of a $13,950,060 arbitration award, including damages, attorneys' fees and costs, on behalf of a small business wireless retailer client in JAMS arbitration. Following the merger between T-Mobile and Sprint, we represented Wireless World, former Sprint cellular phone and mobile services retailer that transitioned to T-Mobile post-merger. After Wireless World sold its business for a significantly reduced value because of alleged deceptive actions by T-Mobile and Sprint, we filed an arbitration with JAMS. Following a one-week hearing, retired Washington Supreme Court Justice Faith Ireland entered a final award in our client's favor, finding violations of Washington's Consumer Protection Act (a state unfair and deceptive trade practices or "mini-FTC" Act). A Washington Superior Court judge confirmed the award over T-Mobile's motion to vacate.
